TWILIGHT OF BATTLESHIPS

The glory of a fleet used to be its battleships. It was awesome to watch the huge battleships parade by. The admirals, "brass hats" and Navy department chiefs gloried in the rugged strength of the battleship. In horizontal naval action, the battleship is a greater weapon than ever, for its armor and fire power has kept pace with the times. However, in this war, naval action is not horizontal, but vertical. A battleship in a modern naval action where carriers and planes are knocked out of combat, is a great weapon, but it is not a great weapon in the air.

It takes from two to four years to build a modern battleship and the cost is terrific, even in this free-spending war.

Our steel, workmen and shipyard can be put to more effective use than in building battleships.

If the brass hats want to go sight-seeing when the war is over, let them ride the bus!

WORK OF THE CCC

It is likely that the CCC camps will be virtually eliminated for the duration of the war. Perhaps a skeleton organization may be retained, but few if any camps will be operated while the war lasts.

Virginia was fortunate in having so many CCC camps located within the borders of the commonwealth. The CCC camps have been a great help in the conservation of parks, forests and the land. The CCC camps have been a great help in the conservation of parks, forests and the land.

For years to come, the CCC camps have been a great help in the conservation of parks, forests and the land.

Call to German Conscience

(From The New York Times)

A courage not less exalted than that of the Christian martyrs in the days of the Roman Empire is now being shown by the German Bishops read in all Catholic churches of the Reich. A copy of the historic document, just reached the country, has been in appeal to the conscience of Germany. We may all pray, will not be in vain. It reveals that prelates attacks on religion have become an attempt to stamp out every vestige of Christianity in the nation. It defies the persecution, demands its end and pledges eternal faith in Christ and the Church.

Germany is overwhelmingly Christian. Ninety-five per cent of the population are professing Christians. This, then, means that the Nazi dictatorship is waging war on its own people. Indeed the Bishops specifically call it a war and publicly protest its continuance. Step by step, they trace the broken promises of the state to protect the church, the restriction of worship and religious education, the expropriation of church property, the expulsion and internment of priests for no other crime than the practice of their faith.

But the Bishops are not content to rest their case there. They go on to show with irrefutable logic that this assault on the church is only part of a broader attack on all human rights, human freedom and the human spirit. They demand the release of all their fellow-citizens imprisoned without proof or trial.

old Waldorf it was served in the quarters that Japan may next knock China out of the war. But it should not be overlooked that since October, 1938, the Chinese have successfully repulsed at least a dozen major offensives against the Japanese.

Certainly this country should give aid to the utmost to Russia this summer. But there must be some planes available, also, for the Far East. The next few weeks will be the most ideal of the year for the American navy to operate against the Japanese.

The next logical step would be to send medium and heavy bombers to China, dropping incendiary and medium bombs on Japan. This would have a great effect on the Japanese.
